When does the face covering instruction come into effect?

The letter of instruction comes into effect at 11:59 p.m. on July 30, 2020. Businesses have a one-week grace period if they need time to prepare and train staff. All policies are required to be in-place by 12:00 a.m. on August 6th, 2020

What establishments/businesses/organizations are included in this instruction?

It applies to indoor areas in these establishments that are open or accessible to the public. Examples include indoor dining areas of a restaurant, indoor farmers' markets, or indoor food courts at a mall, among other spaces.

A commercial establishment may include but is not limited to:

- Banks or financial institutions

- Fitness centres and gyms,
- Grocery stores and bakeries
- Gas stations (indoor premises)
- Malls and plazas
- Mechanics shops, garages, and repair shops
- Personal service settings

I own/operate/am responsible for one of these defined businesses/organizations. What is my responsibility?

There are two policies each business or organization is required to have under this instruction. You are required to train employees on how to implement and enforce them.

1. Enclosed Public Space Policy:

- Have a policy in place to ensure that no person is permitted to enter or remain in an enclosed public space of your business or organization unless they are wearing a face covering at all times. The face covering must cover the mouth, nose, and chin without gaping, and may be temporarily removed to access services provided by your business or organization when it is reasonably required. Here is a sample policy to consider (Toolkits for Establishments and Businesses – including sample policy).

2. Enclosed Employee Space Policy:

- You must also have a policy in place for enclosed employee spaces which are accessed by employees and not accessed by the public.
- Ensure the following are in place for persons accessing this space:
  - Physical distancing of two metres.
  - Face covering requirement if physical distancing is not possible.
  - Routine screening for COVID-19 symptoms, including requiring those with symptoms to stay home and advising them to be tested for COVID-19.
  - Promoting excellence in hand hygiene and cough and sneeze etiquette.
  - Enhanced cleaning and disinfecting of surfaces.

What additional measures are expected under this letter of instruction?

- Post visible signage indicating all persons must wear a face covering.
- Require employees to provide verbal reminders to persons entering the premises without a face covering, or persons removing their face covering while in the premises.
- Place alcohol-based hand sanitizer (60% alcohol or more) at all entrances and exits.
- Ensure all employees are aware of the policies and are trained on implementation and enforcement.
- Provide a copy of the policies, if requested, to a Public Health Inspector or other person authorized to enforce the relevant instructions.

As a reminder, Ontario Regulation 364, a regulation under the new Reopening Ontario Act, also requires persons responsible for a place of business or a facility that is open to the public to limit the number of people in the place of business or facility. This is so that every member of the public is able to maintain physical distancing of at least two metres (6 feet) from one another.

As a member of the public, what is my responsibility when I visit these establishments?

You are required to wear a face covering at any business or organization that operates an enclosed public space. This includes wearing a face covering when you enter the establishment, and for the entire time you are there. You are not permitted to remove the face covering unless for temporary reasons – such as emergencies, or to eat or to drink. Your face covering must cover your mouth, nose and chin without gaping.

I own/operate/am responsible for a business/organization that is not a commercial establishment/public transit/commercial transportation service. What is my responsibility?

Workplaces and businesses that are not commercial establishments, public transit, or commercial transportation are not part of the mandatory face covering instruction.

Southwestern Public Health strongly advises all businesses and workplaces to develop a face covering policy that outlines when a face covering should be used, particularly in any space where physical distancing of two metres (6 feet) cannot be maintained. Here is a sample policy to consider (Toolkits for Establishments and Businesses – including sample policy). Be sure to incorporate training to ensure all employees understand the policy.

As a member of the public, I plan to visit an establishment that is not listed in this Letter of Instruction. Can they make me wear a face covering?

Workplaces and businesses that are not commercial establishments, public transit, or commercial transportation are not part of this mandatory face covering instruction.

However, Southwestern Public Health strongly advises all businesses and workplaces to develop a face covering policy that outlines when a face covering should be used, particularly in any space where physical distancing of two metres (6 feet) cannot be maintained. If a business or workplace adopts a face covering policy even when they are not part of this mandatory face covering instruction, customers should respect and follow that policy unless they have reasons for exemption (see below). The business or organization should not request proof of this exemption. Operators should not refuse entry to someone for not having a face covering based on the need for an exemption that the customer/client identifies in “good faith.”

In what situations may a face covering be exempt?

If sufficient barriers are provided for employees or volunteers to protect them from close contact from a member of the public (e.g., a Plexiglas barrier), a face covering is not required for the employee/volunteer. A face covering is still required for the member of the public, however.

Certain individuals may be exempt based on medical conditions, age – developmentally or chronologically, or during specific activities that may inhibit a person’s ability to breathe. Refer to the full letter of instruction for exemption examples. Operators should not refuse entry to someone for not having a face covering based on the need for an exemption that the customer/client identifies in “good faith.”

COVID-19 (Novel Coronavirus) FAQ for Face Coverings

It is our hope that everyone takes responsibility to help contain COVID-19 and that no one makes a false exemption claim. Wearing a face covering is an incredibly caring act to protect other people from illness.

I have a condition that prevents me from wearing a face covering. Can I still visit these establishments?

Certainly. We recognize that there are individuals who cannot wear a face covering for medical reasons. You cannot be asked for proof of your exemption, and operators should not refuse entry to someone for not having a face covering based on the need for an exemption that the customer/client identifies in “good faith.”

Someone has refused to wear a face covering. What can I tell them?

Remember, some individuals cannot wear a face covering for medical reasons which are not always visible or apparent. For example, an exemption may be needed for those with lived trauma, individuals with mental health concerns, and individuals with sensory disorders. Please be caring and compassionate to each other. Wearing your face covering protects those who cannot wear one.

Operators should not refuse entry to someone for not having a face covering based on the need for an exemption that the customer/client identifies in “good faith.”

How will this be enforced?

These policies will be enforced in “good faith”, using them primarily to educate persons on face covering use. Best efforts must be made to only allow entry to customers wearing a face covering. Employees must remind customers upon entry that a face covering is mandatory, or if a person unreasonably removed their face covering while in the premises.

Operators should not refuse entry to someone for not having a face covering based on the need for an exemption that the customer/client identifies in “good faith.”

Are there fines for not wearing a face covering under this instruction?

Yes. While we encourage and support an education-first approach that is supportive to all persons, those who do not comply with the requirements may face a fine of $750-$1,000 up to a maximum of $100,000. Corporations may also be liable for a fine of up to $10,000,000 for each day or part of each day on which the offence occurs or continues.

Can a business or organization deny entry to people?

It is recommended that businesses avoid confrontation on this mandate. Please remember that not everyone is able to wear a face covering due to medical or other genuine reasons. You cannot tell by looking at someone whether they have a condition that may inhibit them to wear a face covering. Show care and compassion for these individuals. We must trust that people will do what they can to protect themselves and others.

Operators should not refuse entry to someone for not having a face covering based on the need for an exemption that the customer/client identifies in “good faith.”

Can customers remove their face covering?

Temporary removal, where necessary, is allowed for members of the public. Here are some examples:

- When communicating with someone with hearing or communication difficulties
- While actively engaging in an athletic or fitness activity where a face covering would inhibit breathing, such as swimming
- When consuming food or drink
- For any emergency or medical purpose

Are employees required to wear a face covering at all times?

If the employee/volunteer works behind or within a physical barrier, or in an area not designed for public access, a face covering is not needed for the employee/volunteer as long as physical distancing from all other people can be maintained. All employees/volunteers who have contact with the public and do not work behind or within a physical barrier must wear a face covering.

How do I safely wear a face covering?

Health Canada provides an excellent resource for how to put on a non-medical mask or face covering. Southwestern Public Health has additional resources, including this video for putting on and removing a face covering, and this signage for properly wearing a face covering.

What is a face covering?

The term “non-medical mask” and “face covering” are often used interchangeably by the Government of Canada and Public Health Ontario. Wearing a face covering is intended to protect other people from your germs, and their face covering protects you from their germs.

According to Health Canada, face coverings should:

COVID-19 (Novel Coronavirus) FAQ for Face Coverings

- be made of at least two layers of tightly woven fabric (i.e. cotton or linen)
- be large enough to completely and comfortably cover the nose, mouth and chin without gaping
- fit snugly to the nose, mouth and chin and secured to the head with ties or ear loops
- allow for easy breathing
- maintain shape after washing and drying
- be comfortable when worn so as not to require frequent adjusting
- be changed as soon as possible if damp or dirty

Is a plastic face shield considered a face covering?

No. When you wear a plastic face shield, you do not have a snug fit around your nose, mouth and chin. A face shield may be used in combination with another form of protection (such as a non-medical mask, bandana, or other face covering, for example) to provide extra precaution for the wearer against droplets from another person.

Evidence shows that plastic face shields alone are NOT the equivalent to wearing a face covering. It does not filter respiratory droplets and does not provide a snug fit. However, the World Health Organization supports the use of face shields as a “better than nothing” approach. At a minimum, the face shield should cover the sides of the face and extend below the chin.
